12th Year You are invited to join in and celebrate Dartford's Industrial History.

The event will be on Saturday 11th May 2019

A gathering of full-size and miniature steam engines, together with stationary engines, vintage vehicles of all kinds, history displays from local societies, schools and corporate stands, will again be coming together to celebrate, Dartford's Industrial Heritage.

Richard Trevithick, the great innovating steam engineer who's contribution to the past industrial might of the UK is legendary and who, in 1833 died and was buried in Dartford, is central to this event.

The event will be held as before in Central Park, Dartford, and we invite you to bring your exhibit / display to this well established industrial heritage gathering. It is free to all event; visitors, exhibitors, industrial heritage charities and traders alike and it encourages local schools to exhibit their pupils' technological achievements together with clubs, societies and industrial history groups.

If you would like extra space for a club stand please advise me of the approximate area that you would like.

Local Commercial Companies are welcome to request free display space but pitch numbers are limited.

On Sunday 12th May in the morning, a dedication to Richard Trevithick will take place involving a road route of 5 miles which includes the steep hill past Trevithick's grave. Steam Engine owners are encouraged to join this gathering and we invite all historic vehicle owners to bring their vehicles along. Start at Hollands Farm. Hawley Road. Dartford DA1 1PV 11.00 am.

Alternatively join the static display in Dartford High Street, but please let me know if you plan to do this as there is limited space and access.

Please find an Entry Form enclosed / attached / on line, or contact me at above address.

Thank you for your interest.
